Speaker information

Dr. Brian Shiozawa

Brian E. Shiozawa MD is the Associate Vice President for Health Policy and an Associate Professor of Surgery in the Department of Emergency Medicine at University of Utah Health Sciences.

From 2017-2019, Dr. Shiozawa served as the Regional Director of the U. S. Department of Health and Human Services. Appointed by the President, Dr. Shiozawa oversaw operations of HHS for Region 8, which includes Utah, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, and Montana.

Dr. Shiozawa is a Board Certified Emergency physician. He practiced full time at St. Mark's Hospital Emergency Department in Salt Lake City, Utah. He also served as a Department Chairman, as President of St. Mark's Medical Staff, and on the St. Mark's Board of Trustees.

Dr. Shiozawa served as President of the Utah Chapter of the American College of Emergency Physicians and the President of the Utah Medical Association. He also served as Utah state delegate to the American Medical Association.

Dr. Shiozawa served two terms in the Utah State Senate. He was the chairman of the Business, Economic Development and Labor Appropriations Committee, a member of the Senate Health and Human Services Committee, and a member of Social Services Appropriations Committee. He also served on the Health Reform Task Force. As a sponsor or co-sponsor, Dr. Shiozawa passed over 50 bills, including legislation regarding insurance coverage for children with autism, substance abuse treatment, medical and pharmaceutical regulation, motorcycle helmet use, behavioral health interstate licensure, and healthcare research and economic development.

Dr. Shiozawa attended Stanford University, received his medical degree from the University of Washington, and completed his residency at the University of Utah. He and wife Joye have been married for 40 years and have four children and eight grandchildren.
